The Last Race

*I liked a little gamble
A bet I loved to place
A rush of the adrenaline
I loved to watch the race*

*I studied all the form
Running heavy on the course
Sometimes picking colours
An eye on my favourite horse*

*For me it wasn't gambling
It was a treasured way of life
It took my mind so far away
From trouble and from strife*

*So now it's time for resting
I've passed the winners line
Think of me, a winning ticket
And how I lived this life of mine.*
